"Nurse Marjorie"

By Israel Zanowill

Love laughs at Locksmiths—Love also defies convention—Marjorie Donegal was the daughter of a duchess, but she led her lover to believe her mother was a fish woman—and the flame of his affection burned brightest in the maternal fish market—the delicious comedy and tender love interest make "Nurse Marjorie" a picture in a thousand—it has every quality to furnish fine entertainment—good story, plenty of action—rippling comedy—See it tonight.

Solicitors
Are At Work

Every member of the various soliciting committees for the Salvation Army Drive for $25,000 was out bright and early Thursday morning in an effort to reach the quota before Saturday night when the campaign will officially close. General Chairman J. H. Winter was at headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building and gave the committees their final charge. He impressed upon them the absolute necessity of thorough, systematic work and stated that while the citizenship at large was ready and willing and anxious to subscribe for the fund that the ultimate success of the drive rested upon the shoulders of the soliciting committees. "Work early and late and between times," said Chairman Winter as he sent the committees forth. "Do not overlook anyone and take all subscriptions, no matter how small. I feel that the people are only too anxious to subscribe and therefore you should do your work in a comparatively short time. Let's reach our quota by tonight if possible—the sooner the quota is reached the sooner the task will be finished.

The entire city and adjacent territory will be combed in an effort to reach the quota of $25,000. The money that is raised will be used for the purchase of the headquarters of the Army, Kierulff and Chillicothe streets and the remodeling of the same. This will take about $14,000 leaving $11,000 to be used in the prosecution of the Army's work in Portsmouth.

Those who know something of the work of the Salvation Army will be the first to subscribe. It is an organization that has done much for the poor and needy and which goes about its work without the blare of trumpets, asking no questions, but giving relief and sending one on his way rejoicing.

SOCIETY

Among those who went to Ironton, Wednesday evening, to attend Bessie Hunter's weekly dance are: Misses Audrey Killebrew, Marle Young, Goldie Young, Helen Cross, Lena Parlow, Lattie Parlow, Marie Taylor, Esther Vallard, Aris Smith, Margaret Horvath, Genevieve Thoman, Ida Davis, Sarah Prince, Helen Wheeler, Geraldine Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Blais, Jr., Messrs. Julius Harsman, Dewey Adams, W. R. Curry, Carl Nelson, Cornelius Schaefer, Arthur and Harry Dell, Fred Becker, Theodore Webb, Stanley McCoy, Carl Walker, Earl Brown, Roy Price, Clarence Engelbrecht, Guy Edwards, G. K. Speller, S. V. McGuire, Orville Wolf, Edwin Shump, Leroy Wikoff, Walter Staten, Bert Sexton and Mr. Wilkerson.

Mr. Daugherty, in detailing contributions to Senator Harding's campaign, said the third largest total was that of Mrs. Anna Norton Battelle, of Columbus, though "citizens of Marion," Ohio, were credited with a total of $22,700. R. Grosvenor Hutchins, of New York, and a Mrs. Andrews, of Cleveland, gave $2,500 each, the highest single contribution. Other contributors included L. C. Hanna, Jr., and H. S. Thompson, of Toledo, and Michael Gallagher and Patrick Herrick, of Cleveland, $1,000 each.

Named among those giving $10,000 each were G. H. France, E. M. Posten, C. L. Foster, Myron T. Herrick and others in Ohio. Mr. Thompson, the largest contributor, was reported to be a resident of the northwest, but gave no address.

"I turned over $10,000 to the Ohio headquarters," Mr. Daugherty said in explaining expenditures. "The total expense of the Harding campaign in Ohio, from this sum, was about $15,000 or $20,000. The rest, spent from Columbus, went into literature postage and general expense for the national campaign."

He itemized the expenditure from Columbus, $25,400, the largest item, going to printing and advertising. His own secretary, Mr. Thompson, said, at $300 a week, was one of only two men employed.

There were some local expenses in Ohio, he added, "where delegates coming paid their campaign costs, but just back from a visit to friends in Akron."

Headquarters also were established in Indianapolis and in Washington, D. C., he said.

"Now, what were you up against in the Ohio campaign in the way of opposition as to expenditures?" asked Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri. "I can't say that I know that," Mr. Daugherty replied. "We didn't out anything like the campaign that was made for General Wood, because we depended on voluntary endorsement of Senator Harding of Ohio, and Republican organizations. You can get the facts from the Wood men."

The T. H. B. Club enjoyed the afternoon as guests of Mrs. Henry Barker, 600 Oliver street, Wednesday. The afternoon was spent socially with art meditation, after which a dance two-course luncheon was served. Those present were Messdames Doris Kidd, William Journey, S. S. Giffers, Mrs. J. F. McMillan, Harry Woodhouse, A. E. Condit, J. E. Taylor, R. E. Scott, Charles Piles and T. C. Beattie.

Mrs. Anna Jordan will be hostess of the Saturday Night Club Saturday afternoon at her home, Fourth and Chestnut streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Helen Johnson had a party as Wednesday and Thursday guests at the home of Mrs. Anna Jordan Friday afternoon at 7:30 o'clock.

The Mothers' Club of the Fourth street school will meet on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Anna Jordan Friday afternoon at 7:30 o'clock.

Labor Situation Discussed

A special meeting of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks was held Wednesday night in the Security Bank assembly room at which time the labor situation was discussed. The next meeting will be on the regular meeting night, Thursday, June 3.

N. & W. Crafts Meet Tonight

Tonight, in the high school auditorium, 7:00 o'clock, there will be an open house meeting of all N. & W. crafts, their wives and friends. The meeting is held under the auspieces of the Portsmouth Yarns Association and according to their press representative, Joseph Krall, there will be subjects discussed of vital importance to all.

An all-day outing and picnic was enjoyed by the members of the Francis Taylor Guild of All Saints' parish at Taylor's Woods, as the guests of Mrs. Harry L. Taylor, on Wednesday. The beautiful sunny day was an ally in making this a happy event, the members enjoying the day commencing with Nature, which offered every inducement in this lovely spot for a good time under the trees, on the water, and in the interesting hikes over the beautiful expanse of woods.

The picnic lunch, which the members carefully planned, was replete with viands equal to the appetites which such an outing produces. The twenty-two members who enjoyed this delightful day were: Messdames John G. Dillon, Robert S. Gilbert, Charles Holt, Alan N. Jordan, J. F. Dunn, J. Frost Davis, E. A. Powell, Edward Stevens, Raymond Turk, F. J. Leonard and mother, Mrs. A. Winterberg of Cleveland, C. C. Taylor, Watson Goddard, I. H. Goodman, Lucius Stephens, Harry S. Grimes, Harry L. Taylor, Misses Gladys Evans, Ruth Thompson, Kate McConnell and Grace Wilhelm.

Mrs. J. M. Salady was the hostess of the monthly meeting of Mrs. John T. Dwyer's Sunday school class of Trinity church at her home, 1515 McConnell avenue. After the business session, a social time was enjoyed by the members, during which time refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. Pearl Newland will entertain the next meeting.

The Lawn Fete tonight at the home of Mrs. George M. Appel, Gallia avenue, promises to be such, in every sense of the word, since the weather is in full accord with the plans. The entertainment is given under the auspices of the Second Division of the Relief Society of the First Evangelical church, and a social program has been arranged, which will begin at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served on the lawn.

Members of Trinity church Epworth League, will meet at the corner of Seventeenth and Oliver streets, at six o'clock Friday evening for a hike. All members will bring winners for lunch.

Miss Yvonne Davidson, who is located in Washington, is here to spend her vacation with relatives and her many friends.

The menu for the Blue Triangle Tea Room for Friday is: Cream of asparagus soup, Lamb on escalope, Fried oysters, marinated and out salad, Butter-encrusted pie, apricot pie, Coffee, hot and ice tea, milk, cocoa, Cornbread sticks.

SAYS REV. TAUBMAN PROSPERS IN WEST

Fred H. Dill, vice-president of the Haystack-Lumber Co., of Los Angeles, Cal., but who resides at Long Beach, left Thursday for his home in the Golden State after a week's visit with Oregon Order of the Eldersmaster Grain Co. Messrs. Dill and Ogier were booked there many years ago when they lived at Hamden, where both were born.

Mr. Dill is enthusiastic exponent of the virtues of California, and is especially loyal to Long Beach, which was a village of 100 souls in 1836, but which has grown to a city of 25,000 population and still growing. He stated that he is a great admirer of George B. Taubman, former pastor of the First Christian church of this city, now pastor of the First Christian church at Long Beach. While Mr. Dill is a devout Methodist, he is vice president of Rev. Taubman's great Bible class, numbering more than 1,000 members, and which has traced the largest movie picture house in the city, where it meets every Sunday morning from 10:00 to 11 o'clock. Rev. Taubman has named the class "The Reprobates" and according to Mr. Dill all the men swear by their teacher. That the members of the class hold Rev. Taubman in the highest esteem and regard is shown by the fact the class presented him with a $1,000 check as a Christmas gift. Rev. Taubman is drawing a salary of $5,000 per year and has the largest church in the city. He is now directing the erection of a $200,000 church building.

Mr. Dill, who is a hale fellow, well met, settled in California twenty-one years ago and has more than made good. He stated that Wednesday here was a typical California day. Last winter the lowest point reached by the thermometer was 42 degrees above zero.

SWITCHMEN GET SUSPENDED SENTENCES

E. W. Cole, 32, Oscar Lykins, 21, Clifford Lowery, 25, and Lige Donahue, 41, four of a number of former N. & W. switchmen, who pleaded guilty to tampering with grand jury in connection with the theft of cigarettes and other merchandise from railroad cars in the yards at East Portsmouth last fall, appeared in Common Pleas court Thursday morning for sentence. Judge Thomas sentenced the defendants to state prison, but suspended the sentences and in so doing the court said perhaps he would incur the censure of a great many persons.

In passing sentence Judge Thomas told the defendants that it seemed there was a motion in railroad circles that the employees had a right to loot and pilfer the company's property, a feeling that they have something coming and if they can't get it one way, they will another. The court further told the accused men that in his opinion they were in a measure victims of their environment and commended them for their honesty and frankness in coming into court and telling the truth. The men thanked the court for giving them another chance, and assured him no one would have caused to complain of their conduct in the future. The men were ordered by the court to reimburse the railway company to the value of the property each took.

MRS. VAUGHN GAINS TWENTY-FIVE POUNDS ON THREE BOTTLES

Weighed Only One Hundred Pounds When She Began Taking Tanlac — Was Tired All The Time.

SAYS AFTER EFFECTS OF FLU OVERCOME

Lost Strength Has Returned And She Sleeps Like A Child Now — Eats Anything She Wants.

"I have just finished my third bottle of Tanlac and have gained twenty-five pounds in weight," was the truly remarkable statement made by Mrs. Elsie Vaughn, 27 Turrells Court, Cincinnati, Ohio, recently.

"When I commenced taking the medicine I only weighed one hundred pounds; now I weigh one hundred and twenty-five pounds, and never felt better in my life. I had suffered two attacks of flu — first in January, 1919, and again in January, 1920 — and as a result was in a badly run-down, weak condition. My nerves were so badly upset I could never get a good night's sleep, and I had a severe headache just about all the time. My appetite left me almost entirely, and the little I did manage to eat did not seem to do me a particle of good. I felt tired and worn out all the time, and was so miserable I became almost despondent, and had about given up all hope of ever being well again.

"But things are different now, for thanks to Tanlac, all my troubles are completely gone. I have regained all my lost strength, and my nerves are in such good condition I can sleep like a baby all night long. The headaches have stopped, and I have a splendid appetite. In fact Tanlac has simply made me feel like a new woman, and I think it is just the greatest medicine in the whole world."

Tanlac is sold in Portsmouth by the Fisher and Streich Pharmacy and the leading druggists in every town.

COURT HOUSE

Krekel Asks New Trial

Motion for a new trial in the case of John Krekel against Adam Krekel was filed in Common Pleas court Thursday by the defendant through his attorneys, Blate and Blate.

Krekel sued for $10,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Fannie Myers-Krekel, and a jury awarded him $100 Wednesday. Ten reasons are advanced in the motion why the verdict should be set aside and a new trial granted.

An application made Thursday by Attorney F. W. Moulton, on behalf of the plaintiff for a continuance of the will contest case of Elsie Vaughn against Shepherd Kerns, which was scheduled for trial next Wednesday, was granted by Judge Thomas.

Attorney Moulton represented that his client, Mrs. Vaughn, who lives at South Bend, Ind., is sick and unable to travel.

Petit Jury Excused

When a settlement was reached Wednesday in the damage suit of Burlington against The Portsmouth Street Railway & Light Company, left the trial docket vacant during the remainder of the week and Judge Thomas excused the petit jury from further service until next Tuesday, when they will return to try the case of The Wait Furniture company against The Baltimore & Ohio Railway company.

Mrs. Maier's Will

Under the will of Rosa Maier, late widow of August Maier, who died recently at her home, 500 Sixth Street, this city, which has been admitted to probate, provision is made for the payment of $500 to St. Mary's church and small bequests to Rev. Thomas Carey, Wheelersburg; Sisters Home of St. Mary's church and her grandchildren, George A. Lehman and Rosam Frederick as graduation presents.

To her daughters, Theresa Frederick, Mary Lehman and Bertha Payne she leaves all her household goods and personal effects and they are to share equally with her two sons, Albert S. Maier and William V. Maier, the latter now dead, in the residue of the estate.

Mrs. Mary Lehman, Columbus, has been named as executrix and an inventory shows personal property to the value of $8,120.82 but no amount is made for the residue.

al of the real estate was made. The will was executed on April 10, 1920, a short time before Mrs. Maier died.

Married 29 Years; Seeks A Divorce

A divorce with custody of their five minor children is sought by Isaac Bolton, West Side, employed at the Excelsior shoe factory, in an action instituted in Common Pleas court Thursday against Anna Bolton.

Bolton says they were married 29 years ago and he charges neglect, deserting through Attorney T. C. Healy that she has continuously absented herself from home at night, frequently all night, associating with immoral women and men for immoral purposes, attending dances of the lowest order and drinking intoxicating liquor to excess, he asserts, and that by reason of her neglect and bad habits their children are being raised in an atmosphere of immorality and impurity he declares.

Bolton obtained an injunction, trying to keep $500 in bank in life insurance which, he claims, to have given her as an inducement to return home a few months ago after she had left and filed no action for divorce.

Motion To Vacate Judgment

A motion to vacate a judgment recently rendered in Common Pleas court in the case of Virgil Morphon against John A. Dougherty was filed Thursday by Attorneys Blair and

LUCASVILLE WILL HONOR DEAD

Lucasville and vicinity are this year planning for their usual impressive service in honor of their soldier dead of all wars, and will observe Sunday as the day. They are graves of soldiers from the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the late Civil War and the World War in the cemetery there.

The few remaining members of the old G. A. R. post, E. J. Edgworth, No. 382, and the W. A. Baker Post, No. 392, of the American Legion are cooperating to make the day of Memorial a big community day for Lucasville as it has always been in the past.

The parade to the cemetery where services of memorial will be held. Decoration of graves. The boys of the American Legion will proceed to the High School grounds, where they will plant a tree with appropriate ceremonies in honor of Wm. A. Baker, killed in action. At 3 o'clock the public will meet in Community House for the Memorial address to be delivered by Rev. Shriver, of Lucasville.

RECEPTION FOR NEW MEMBERS

Tonight the First Baptist Church will tender a reception to the fifty new members received into the church during the recent revival services. A splendid program has been arranged for the evening and an enjoyable time is assured. A talk will be made by Mr. N. J. Thomas on "True Character Building," and Rev. M. H. Hildwell will deliver an address appropriate for the occasion. Among the musical numbers will be a duet by Mrs. Schuler and Miss Mattie Graham, a solo by Mrs. Will Schuler. At the conclusion of the program there will be a social hour in the basement at which time refreshments of ice cream and cake will be served. It is hoped that the entire membership of the church will turn out to extend a cordial welcome to those who have recently completed their fellowship and entered the service of the Lord.

Meet Tonight

The Portsmouth Lodge of Elks No. 1711 will meet tonight in the local lodge rooms, Third and Washington streets, in monthly session.

NO PROFIT SUIT SALE

Don't Try To Judge Values by the Prices at this No Profit Sale

Quality and price were divorced when the war started and there's no relation today between the actual cost and the "Replacement Value" that the High Price stores pin on their suits and the only reason they are able to get twice our price, when they duplicate our quality, is simply because no one can see the difference. More Money don't mean more value — you can't buy any better than the best — and our suits have the best tailoring from the best woolen fabric money can buy — suits in every shade and style.

POLICE TRYING TO SOLVE MYSTERY THAT SURROUNDS YOUNG WOMAN

Lowe's

It's great fun to Vernicol—you'll like it

Get out that old chair, table or other piece of furniture you have discarded just because its finish is marred. You can youthify it in a jiffy with Lowe Brothers Vernicol and make it worthy of any room in your home.

Vernicol is a varnish stain. Comes in a can; goes on with a brush. Made to revive furniture that has lost its smile.

Dip your brush in the can and apply. That's all there is to it. Scratches disappear as if by magic. You'll want to do over everything in the house. Which you can. Vernicol wears and wears—and wears. That's why it's as good for floors as furniture. Made in all the popular finishes. Come in and ask for color card.

Back From Union Meeting

Edward Ewalski and Louis Herder have returned from Columbus where they were in attendance at a meeting of labor delegates from all over the state the big meeting being held in Carpenters' Union hall. This meeting was held for the discussion of plans for the non-partisan political campaign to be held by the American Federation of Labor. Two labor delegates were present from each city.

Fight Pictures Coming To Sun

If you want to see how Jack Dempsey deliriously thrashed the mighty Jess Willard and thereby became the heavyweight champion of the world, then you want to see the official motion pictures of the Willard-Dempsey fight at Toledo.

These pictures, which are taken in five full reels and show everything connected with the bout from signing of the agreement to the crowds cheering the victor and including all preliminaries, will be shown at the Sun theatre four days starting Wednesday June 2. There will be five shows daily starting at 2:30, 4:15, 6:30, 7:45 and 9 o'clock. It is declared the pictures are the greatest fight films ever taken and are better than any ring-side seat.

On Business Trip

Miss Wilfred Fowler of the Steinkamp Furniture Company will return Wednesday evening from Cincinnati, where she has been on business for the firm.

The mystery concerning pretty "Grace Malone," who was found in an apparent unconscious condition, and brought to the police station early Sunday morning, where she has been held pending an investigation by the police Bureau of Community Service and sheriff's office, gave signs of drawing near a solution when it was learned yesterday that the young woman had registered at the Biggs House recently under the name of Grace McLean. According to the signatures on the hotel register, she registered and remained a guest for several days at the hotel with a woman she claims to be her step-mother. She is fast coming out of her hysterical condition, and is able to talk intelligently with the authorities, although she still adheres to her first story, and maintains a strict silence as to information which would lead to the solution of her identity.

Police say they believe they are near the solution of the mystery, and after a few days more investigation, may be able to give out all the facts concerning the young woman.

In the meantime, an investigation by the authorities and the Bureau of Community Service progresses with nothing definite for publication, they say.

COOPERATIVE STORE DISCUSSED

A joint meeting of all N. & W. Union men was held in Macabee hall, Sixth and Chatham streets, Wednesday evening, after a short meeting of N. & W. machinists. The meeting of all the N. & W. Union men was called to discuss the possibility of establishing in this city one of the several co-operative stores now being operated along the N. & W. system by Union men. The stores are known as one-cent stores, the stores usually receiving one cent profit over the wholesale price. Other meetings will be held when the matter will be discussed further.

Shortage Of Cars On C. & O.

According to D. A. Grimes, local C. & O. agent, freight shipments from this city are being delayed by a shortage of cars. He says that it exists on this and all other divisions on the road. No embargo orders have been announced by the C. & O., but restrictions on certain kind of freight are in order.

LAUDEMANNN ISSUES STATEMENT

In a statement issued several days ago at New York by Fred Laudemann, who formerly resided here, charges were made against the company, Mr. Laudemann in his statement covers the various phases covering the history of the company, which resulted in 500 workmen leaving their positions.

Some of Mr. Laudemann's statements follow:

"The Virginia officials do not want to adjust."

"Striking employees are not back on their feet."

"Company is taking unfair advantage of Transportation Act of 1920."

"The striking shipmen are holding up for the return to the pay rolls of the discharged Princeton bottommaker."

"They declare they will not go back to the jobs left vacant by the men refusing to report for work."

"Passenger traffic is still normal but freight hauling has been interrupted."

NEW BOSTON HAPPENINGS

The Glenwood High School auditorium was packed to its capacity Wednesday evening when the commencement exercises of the class of 1920 graduating class were held. The class colors of hellebore and emerald intermingled with various kinds of spring blossoms, served as a background to the stage on which were seated the High School faculty, the three graduates and Dean H. C. Minnich of Miami University, speaker of the evening. Hansen's orchestra of Portsmouth furnished music for the occasion. The class address was more than interesting and Dean Minnich urged the graduates to promote their intellectual power so that one would take up educational work in a broader sense. His entire address included a number of useful phrases and words, which were full of interest to the large audience. The diplomas were presented to the three graduates including, Hattie Fitch, Edna Levine and Genora O'Neal, by Dr. E. Ross, Sup't. of the local schools.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Jamps Gerald of Lakeview avenue, New Boston are the parents of an eight pound daughter born Monday. Mr. Gerald is a bricklayer.

This is a good place to camp but a poor place to write.

Yesterday was a great day. Joe said it would rain, Ralph said it would be cloudy and not rain and I said the sun would shine. We knew one of us would hit it and we did.

The fish here have peculiar habits. They nearly all stay in the water. At least we haven't found any on the bank yet. The other pike that we are told inhabits these waters is still in fact. He is said to be four feet and a half long and to weigh between twenty and thirty pounds. I suppose they can come somewhat near his weight by his own scales, but I've never been able to figure out how they get his length, as none of the fish we have caught had any feet and only two or three had scales.

Today (this is Tuesday) the river began coming up about daybreak and rose rapidly until it is very muddy and very swift, too high and swift to fish. However, if Mr. Alexander's eggs and buttermilk hold out we'll be able to pull through, barring accidents.

A big wild duck floated down on the rise this morning but we couldn't get him as we had no shot gun, and that's a good excuse you know.

New non-porous tires now offered to motorists

One-inch strip stretches to 7 7/8 inches

At last it is possible to secure the kind of tire you have always wanted—a tire that is free from the basic fault of ordinary rubber and gives longer mileage with less trouble.

Ordinary rubber is porous. Because of this great flaw ordinary tires must weaken and disintegrate on the road, absorbing moisture, grit, grease, oil and other injurious substances. The tread becomes weakened in spots—later the tire fabric. Premature punctures may occur, sand boils may develop—tread separation goes on unseen—finally a nasty blow-out follows.

Due to the discovery of a remarkable compound, these common troubles can now be greatly reduced. Crocid Compound, first produced in 1917, makes tires non-porous. It seals the millions of tiny pores. It makes rubber practically impervious to moisture, oil and grit. It prevents rapid disintegration.

Crocid Compound Tires now available

Made of Crocid Compound, this new rubber is 50% to 100% tougher than ordinary rubber, and yet resilient. A one-inch strip stretches to 7 7/8 inches. Because they are made with this remarkable compound, Thermoid Tires eliminate the premature trouble you experience with ordinary tires. Either the cord or fabric type gives maximum mileage under all road and weather conditions.

You are invited to call and see these new tires, also the famous Crocid Compound tubes. Let us tell you interesting detail facts, experiences and tests that show why Thermoid tires and tubes end premature trouble and give better mileage.

Write or ask us for name and address of the Thermoid dealer who will supply you

Screen version of Zangwill Play
Starring Mary Miles Minter
What proves to be a very amusing and highly entertaining photo-drama is now being shown at the Lyric Theatre. "Nurse Marjorie" is a real attraction.

Mary Miles Minter is the star
"Nurse Marjorie" which is a drama from the pen of the famous English writer, Israel Zangwill. The story is based on the willfulness of the young daughter of the Duke of Dondogal, who insists on working and enters a sanitarium as nurse.

It is here that she meets John De-bury, a member of the House of Commons, who has been sent to the sanitarium for his nervousness.
The story has as Nurse Mar-

A black and white illustration of a man and a woman in 1920s-style clothing. The woman, on the left, wears a long, light-colored coat with a dark fur collar and a large, ornate hat decorated with a flower. She carries a large, patterned suitcase. The man, on the right, wears a dark suit, a light-colored shirt with a tie, and a flat cap. He also carries a large suitcase. Both individuals are looking towards the right side of the frame.

the scene of the picture is laid in the hills of old Kentucky and the action is replete with sensationalism from start to finish.

An Error Paved The Way To Termination Of Game; Greatest Struggle Ever

That the fans of Portsmouth may be thoroughly entertained Sunday and Decoration Day, Owner W. N. Littleman, of the "All Stars" has booked the famous Pan Handle team of Columbus, Pa. to play at Millbrook Park on these two days. Mr. Littleman picked what he is sure is the best attraction in Ohio. The Pan Handles have been doing great this summer and have their first game to lose. Last Saturday and Sunday they humiliated the Mark Greys, of Zanesville, two straight defeats, beating the Zanesville aggregation 5 to 0 with Stewart Ditts on the mound, for the Mark Greys. Manager Clay Bailey writes that he has the best semipro team he ever played and is going to bring the home when he meets the All Stars. He is playing Orlando Keller, Portsmouth boy, at second base and says that Keller is having his greatest year. The fans will be out in full force to give the popular little fellow the glad hand. Keller stands well here, not only as an upright and worthy citizen, but as a scrappy, heady ball player. The lineup for the Pan Handles will be as follows: Mays, c; Keller, 2b; Cronin, 1b; McGillicuddy, 3b; Miller, 3b; Dagandell, cf; Baker, ss; Linsen, 1b; and Mills, p. The games at Millbrook Park will start promptly at 3 o'clock, new time, and there will be no doubt be tremendous interest in the outcome. Last year the Pan Handles appeared at Millbrook three times and they gave a most worthy account of themselves, although the All Stars won the series, 3 to 2. This year both teams have been strengthened and the fans are bound to fly in every conceivable direction. Honor Cain, who it will be recalled played with Portsmouth in the O. S. L. days, and who is now playing first base for the Mark Greys of Zanesville, writes Mr. Gableman that the Pan Handles are the strongest team appearing in his city this year and he is sure they will give the All Stars all they bargained for. Cain stands high with local fans and he wants to go on record as predicting two terrific struggles at Millbrook Sunday and Monday.

Big Meet At Ashland

With the biggest and last track meet of the season only two days away, the P. H. S. track squad is practicing diligently at Millbrook field each afternoon.

The T. S. State track and field meet, to which Huntington, Ashland, Ticonderoga and Portsmouth High Schools are entered, is the biggest attraction for all concerned to be held this season. It will be held at Ashland Saturday, at 2 p. m.

Tickets have been placed on sale at P. H. S. the price being 25 cents for spectators. The local high school retains one-half of all admissions sold in this city.

From the reports of the athletes made this season by the various schools representing the schools, the Huntington has the edge on all of the other contenders in most of the track as well as field events. As it often happens, however, the edge may be upset when it is taken into consideration that Huntington has gained her reputation on the track and field in the season; and by this time the rivals may have rounded into condition.

OPEN GOLF GROUNDS WITH BIG TOURNAMENT

Formal opening of the Portsmouth Golf Grounds for the season of 1920 will take place next Saturday, Sunday and Decoration Day. A Memorial Day Handicap is being arranged by George E. Kricker. The grounds are in good shape and no doubt many golfers will be on hand to enjoy this year's opening.

Reds Drop Loose Game

ST. LOUIS, May 27.—St. Louis defeated Cincinnati in a wild game Wednesday 10 to 3. The visitors first score in the eighth, mixing four hits with two bases on balls off Jacob for three runs. St. Louis won in the eighth when Stock tripled and scored on Hornsby's single. The latter also scored when Hornsby after hitting Hornsby's drive got away from him, started for the club house, apparently thinking the game was over.

"Fair Play" Has Kick

Sporting Editor Times:
I would like to say a few words in regard to the competitive tests held in Millbrook Park several days ago by the High School. These were held to decide which athlete was the most man and one who can surpass all others in an "all around" athletic. Therefore, I object to the pretention of this medal for excellence in athletics in general, and I think that it should be stated that it was for track and field events only.

Yours Truly,
P. S. For good reason, I state that I'm not a High School student, and I am a three year, four letter, therefore not a defeated "Candidate."

Taken Back To Huntington

Louis Wain, aged 21 years, negro, arrested by the local police for the Huntington authorities, was returned to the West Virginia city Thursday by an officer who came for him. It is alleged Wain stole $20 and a revolver from a man named Bob Evans in the upriver city recently.

JUST DOPE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27.—Ralph De Palma, Joe Boyer, Louis Chevrolet and Jean Chassagne, will be in the front row with the first named at the 1920, when 32 of the world's greatest auto race drivers line up for the start of the 500-mile grand at the Indianapolis motor speedway next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. De Palma was the favored position by virtue of the fact that he circled the brick sacker for ten miles yesterday afternoon at an average speed of 22.5 miles an hour. Boyer averaged 20.5 miles for the four laps. Chevrolet's average was 23.5 and that of the French pilot 23.45.

NOT FIRST GUILTY THERE

PRESIDENT GOMPERS has issued a manifesto, as head of the Federation of Labor, call for an overturn in congress. A great many people will agree with him that the present body in the main, should be given leave to remain at home but they will not altogether agree with him as to the reason.

His principal grievance against congress is that it has done nothing to remedy the high cost of living. That is quite true, but it is equally true that it couldn't have done anything had it tried ever so hard and earnestly. The causes of high cost of everything are above and beyond it. Costs are fixed by production, prices are set by demand. If an article does not pay a profit on production the time will come when it will no longer be produced. Demand takes little or no note of this. People do not, as a rule, buy a thing with consideration as to its costs, but solely on the measure of their need or desire for it.

Of course, these principles are laid down only in general terms. Under certain conditions congress may have and has in fact indirectly controlled prices, but this is not a broad power that lies within its authority to exercise at any time it so chooses—there must be some need for it. For instance in the emergency of war maximums were fixed on certain foods, but nobody, not even Mr. Gompers himself, will hold that the government has the right to set the price of wheat at say a dollar a bushel, nor meat at 25 cents a pound. True enough there is a disposition to hold that congress can and should do anything that certain classes demand of it, but as yet that has not been written in the law of the land.

The condition that grieves President Gompers and so many of us with him exists of ourselves and is curable by ourselves and if we would address ourselves seriously to it, instead of appealing to the lawmakers, the cure would be sooner and more effectually set to work.

The war called the major producing forces of the war, either into the fighting line, or to the output of essentials therefor, causing a deficit in the ordinary requirements of life. This disturbance, in a major form, still remains with us, at least to the extent that production has not reached a stage where it yields a safe margin, or surplus over consumption. Until the time comes when supply is ahead of demand, or a panic is precipitated by false alarm and agitation, congress may turn out a hundred statutes a day against the high cost of living and none will avail.

Then there is this indisputable proposition: Nine out of ten men, or families, if you will, are better off today than they ever were in all the previous history of civilization, that is in America. They are living in better homes, better equipped, and they are enjoying more of the amusements and luxuries of existence. What more striking exposition of the universal spread of prosperity could we have than we see in the condition that the tramp has disappeared and the job is running after the man, instead of the man looking for work?

We are not aware that we have ever been credited with being especially devout, but there may be a bit of superstition in us, so we can't help from feeling that unless the country ceases its everlasting complaint and disorder under the hourly a generous Providence has bestowed upon it, He will turn his face away from it and curse it, because of ingratitude.

THE AUTHORITIES DISAGREE

HENRY P. DAVISON, international banker and head of the Red Cross and Samuel Vaulain, president of Baldwin locomotive works, have lately returned from a trip to Europe that carried them extensively over the central portions thereof, those nations mostly affected and appoosably devastated by the war.

They neither traveled together nor saw with the same eyes, indeed they did not so much as see the same things, at least to a concurrent similarity.

Mr. Davison finds want and war stalking everywhere, thousands literally perishing of starvation and he predicts dire things to come to this old planet if America does not come to their relief with food and clothing.

Mr. Vaulain didn't see anything of the sort, though he was both expediting and looking for it incidentally. He doesn't take a bit of stock in the tales that Europe is starving, he is altogether sure from what his eyes saw and his ears heard there isn't anything in the situation to excite either America's sympathy or her charity. Generally the people have settled down to the ways of peace. They are producing more than their wants require and scarcely is not an excuse for an empty stomach. The only call for deprivation here and there is a lack of transportation facilities to supply adequate distribution. As a whole the situation is gratifying.

As this is still a more or less free country you may believe either one you choose.

CHEERS FOR CHICAGO

CHICAGO never does things half way. Attendants on the Republican national convention, to be held therein in June, will get a sample of this truth, if half the tales borne by the newspapers be true.

Chicago has gone into the housing proposition and gone into it right. Her merchants, manufacturers and capitalists have raised ten million dollars and will construct comfortable homes at comfortable prices, for the tenants. The first batch of one hundred are completed and are being sold at cost price, in the vicinity of $4,000, on monthly payments of $33. The maximum return on the investment is fixed at 6 per cent. None but a wage earner can acquire one of these dwellings.

Best of all the wage earner must have children, not one child mind you, living with him.

Of course her slow and grasping rivals will say this is but another trick of Chicago to attract more population. But no matter as to that the Chicago idea has no flaws in it and the more in habitants it brings her the more peaceable and orderly she is going to be, home ownership and children being the all sufficient hostages therefor.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

ENGAGED TO ONE MAN; LOVE WITH ANOTHER

He came, he saw, and he was conquered. And, oh, what it means to me, only the stars and the deep spaces could ever understand.

Prince Charming simply stood before the portrait of myself and said nothing. He seemed to be seeing vision and only at the end of an eternity should he say, "How strange that you should realize yourself."

Then we sat down and talked of everyday things, and smoked, and sometimes were silent. We do not need to communicate. Prince Charming and I, words are so useless in the face of tremendous soul upheavals—so final.

Once he asked me to let him see my hand, and when he took it in his trembling, noticeably. But he has the tender insight of Sir Galahad of old, mixed up with the personality of a Richard Coeur de Lion—his a fatal combination of qualities. And not by the bat of an eyelid did he let me know that he felt my trembling. Then I laughed, and the laugh was high pitched, so I decided to whistle, as a last defense, and the notes broke, and there was nothing left for me to do but sit and stare at him.

I am a good hand at starting and immediately became somewhat unsteady of myself, and offered him a third cup of tea. Prince Charming was most enthusiastic about my study and appreciation of my work.

He told me that he had always pointed since he was a small boy, and although his work as an architect took up much of his time, he was going to come to my place some day and perpetrate a master-piece, if I would allow him.

Then we dreamed on and on for an hour or two, until he suddenly jumped up and told me that he had to go, but had had the most wonderful two hours of his life—with me.

We made no appointment for any next meeting. We said but little, but after he had left the room went dark, and there was a glossiness in the back of my head. I sat down and cried and cried, for no reason whatsoever.

Then I had to come to my everyday senses, powder my nose, blink up a bit, and smile as an engaged girl should, don't you know. For in an hour I would be with the man of my choice. Such men have a decided objection to red eyes in the heads of those they love and possess. Hence my quick transformation.

I was to meet Jack at the Cosmos grill room, and arrived there promptly, surprisingly so for me. He had not arrived, so I sat me down at a table and told the waiter that I was waiting for someone. Ten minutes passed, fifteen, and still no haunce. I decided to order something to eat, as I was starving. And just as it was being served to me I remembered to my horror that I had only a quarter with me—and Jack was still among the missing.

A red spot appeared on both cheeks, as I ate in a miserable solitude. How could Jack possibly treat me so? How dare he invite me to dinner and then fail to put in an appearance? Never would I speak to him again. I was once more a free lance, as far as he was concerned. Stay engaged to a man who has no idea of love, and I lagged and fumed inwardly, until my quieter self told me to call up the house and tell daddy that I was held in pawn for my dinner. No sooner said than done. Imagine my surprise when on calling I heard Jack's deep voice booming back at me from the great beyond.

WHO'S WHO In The Days News

SENATOR KENYON

In a recent speech before the upper house of congress, Senator Kenyon of Iowa warned the public that farm products would continue to be very high in price. After pointing out that there has been a decrease of twenty-eight per cent in the number of farm workers in two years—and that farm owners are now finding it extremely difficult to harvest their crops, he predicted a few years hence present conditions continue, and said that in a not far distant day hunger would drive people back to the farms.

The Iowa senator's speech has called forth a great deal of comment, most of it in accord with his statements. No one regards Kenyon as a sensationalist, and it is realized that he never makes a statement unless he can back it up with facts.

William S. Kenyon entered the senate nine years ago. He was born at Elvira, Ohio, in 1869, and was educated at Grinnell College and the law school of the University of Iowa. On being admitted to the Iowa bar he hung out his shingle at Fort Dodge, and still practices there when not in Washington. Before his election to the senate he was prosecuting attorney of Webster county, Iowa, for five years; district judge of the Eleventh judicial district for two years, and assistant to the attorney general of the United States from March, 1910, until his election to the senate on April 12, 1911. He is a Republican and his present term expires in 1925.

BILLY WHISKER

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

It wasn't long until Billy Jr., and Star heard the puffing and blowing of a train coming up the grade to pick them up and carry them along on their journey. When Pete, their caretaker, heard it he said:

"It's mighty glad I am to hear that, for I am as hungry as a bear, not being able to use the cans and raw potatoes like you, Mr. Billy Jr., and grass and herbs like you, Mr. Star."

The train presently reached them, and by the help of many hands everything was soon packed on board and they were off for the west once more. They did not have any more mishaps and reached Chicago one raw windy morning. As their train pulled into the yard, where it was to be until their car was switched onto the Santa Fe train that was to carry Billy Jr. to the far west, he remarked:

"So this dirty, flat-looking city is Chicago. Well, I don't think much of it from what I've seen."

"Oh, but you shouldn't judge any city by what you see of it from a train for remember, the tracks always run through the worst parts of the city. You should see this city's boulevard and parks. They would make you change your mind, for they are among the finest in the world. I saw them on my way east, for Mr. Whisker stopped here a week and during that time kept me at a lively stable and every day he took a horseback ride. In that way I saw all of the city, its handsome residences, business districts, parks, and boulevards; and I tell you there are none finer, not even in your beloved Boston."

"Don't you think I could manage to run away and see it all?" asked Billy.

"Not unless you wish to give up your trip west, for if you once left this car you could never find your way back among all these hundreds of others in the yard here that look just like it."

"I could easily find my way back if that was all," said Billy Jr., "but the thing I am afraid of is that they might start west and leave me, or switch you off to another yard where I could not find you."

The conversation was interrupted here by a man bringing them something to eat and a bucket of water.

"I do not see why they did not run this car over to the stock yards so these animals could have been taken out and fed and watered and their cars cleaned in proper shape," Billy Jr. heard a red-headed man say, as he pushed back the sliding door that shut them in. "For heaven's sake! I thought it was two horses we had been sent to look after and not a car of goats," as Billy Jr. appeared at the door.

"You can have the job," said a jolly-looking fat man. "I throw my share right here. I had all I wanted to do with goats when I was a boy."

"Why, what did they ever do to you that you should like such a dislike to them?" said the red-headed man.

The Newly-Weds

"Well, dear, how does my record compare so far with your mother's?"

"Your fuses are nothing like the ones mother used to make."

Mrs. Newbridge—John, dear, I think that horrid butcher cheated me.

Hubby—Why, Mr. Love?

Mrs. Newbridge—Because, he sold me a turkey that didn't have a blessed bit of stuffing in it—Judge.

"You didn't talk that way before we were married," she said petulantly.

"What was?" he asked, frowning.

"You said then you'd go through fire and water for me, and now you refuse me money."

"But I never said I'd go through bankruptcy for you."—Yoursers' Statesman.

One Girl and the Others

"Are you your mother's only little girl?" asked the kindly old man.

"Yes, sir," replied the five-year-old. "The most of us is boys."—London Answers.

Their First Haul

With the summer comes sunshine and flowers and lots of other joys—and sorrows. Little Dorothy's mother was fully alive to the situation, and made preparations beforehand.

She sent her daughter into the kitchen to go through the parcels from the grocer's shop and pick out some newspapers.

But Dorothy returned not, and at last mother got impatient.

"Hurry up, dear," she called from the dining room. "Can't you get them?"

"No, mamma," came a sad little voice in reply. "They're got me, but we're late coming."

"May I kiss you?"

"Not much."

"Well, I only wanted one or two."

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY G. O. MINTIRE

NEW YORK, May 27.—Every day scores of girls slip through the gates of Manhattan alive with the burning ambition to have their names ultimately flashed in electric lights on Broadway. Theatrical offices, waiting rooms are filled with them and so are the booking agencies. Not only in fiction, are the houses mortgaged while the family stakes all on the budding genius.

Only a year ago a mother and two daughters came from a mid-west city and came under my observation. The mother was widowed, one of the daughters was very pretty but had no stage experience yet the family believed in her and had spent half of $500, all they had, for clothes to give her a good appearance in visiting managers.

She had no pull. To me it looked hopeless and I used to worry about them. After a few weeks they moved away up in the Bronx to get down expenses. Now and then I ran across the girl making the rounds of the theatrical places. Then finally she family dropped completely out of sight. "It was the old story," I said. "Failure and a return to their home."

Then it happened that I went to one of the reigning musicals at the time. Not the leading part, but one of the most prominent parts played by the young girl from the mid-west. She had grace, she had all of those touches that are so desirable in the finished player.

And the metamorphosis took place in a year. I hastened to the theatre to learn the details. The girl had impressed him by her beauty and gave her a small chance part in the back row. But at rehearsal she did her work so well that she was put in the front row and before the show was ready for out of town they had her next to the leading part.

Of course such cases are rare, they do happen. There is a certain ease, perhaps more notable in the career of Edith May. She is the daughter of a Minneapolis newspaperman and rose to stardom in a few weeks. Lately she left a New York production to go to the peak of her popularity in the opera play in London, and has achieved the greatest success of any American girl since Ides May.

No one has the right to discourage the ambitions, yet despite these two instances of possible success the large number of those who fall back, the underlying a particularly lamentous one.

The closing of the Hotel Ketchikan, the most famous hotel in town, was a shock. No one dreamed of such a thing. James Regan, the proprietor, had a 15-year lease but the hotel was doing a terrible business but the loss of revenue due to prohibition meant ruinous profits were lost yearly. The hotel was patronized by the big spenders. Regan was a self-made man. He came from the East Side and attracted the attention of the Astors who built the hotel for him. He sold the hotel for $1,000,000. The hotel was the only one in the city that was not a failure. He knew every watching thing. He knew every partment from the kitchen up to the private office. He retired a millionaire. His son who has also been active in the management, is a Yale graduate and the husband of Alice Joyce, the moving picture actress.

One of the highest paid workers in New York is a little whithered foreigner, foreign-speaking man, who works from daylight until nearly midnight in a cheerless dirty dingy little home and makes high paid thermometer. He is President for and when the war came along he cut off the supply of thermometers but was the only skilled workman in his line.

Wouldn't Stand For It

In Cleveland they tell a story of a boy who left school to work for a small manufacturer. The boy was dull and his stupidity annoyed his employer greatly. So, after a week's trial, he was discharged.

"Get your pay," said the manufacturer to him on Saturday, "and let that be the last of you. You're discharged."

It was, therefore, a great surprise that the manufacturer saw the boy at work in his former place on Monday morning.

"What are you doing in this shop?" demanded the manufacturer angrily. "I discharged you Saturday."

"Yes," said the boy, "and don't you do it again. When I told my mother, she licked me."—New York Times.

The Date Palm

The date palm differs from other trees in that the trunk is not solid, but its center is filled with pith, round which is a tough bark, full of strong fibers when young, which, as the tree grows old, harden and become ligneous. To this bark, the leaves are closely joined, which in the center rise erect, but after they are advanced above the sheath that surrounds them, they expand very wide on every side of the stem, and, as the older leaves decay, the stalk advances in height. The leaves, when the tree has grown to a size for bearing fruit, are six to eight feet long; are very broad when spread out, and are used for covering the tops of houses or similar purposes.

Among army officers in some of the European countries the custom still prevails of wearing a ring set with turquoise as a talisman against a violent death.

Adolfo de la Huerta, governor of the state of Sonora, has been chosen by the Mexican congress president ad interim of the republic. He will hold office until a president can be chosen for the full term a few weeks hence.

Police Rush "Bolshevist Bomb Factory" In The Homes

COLUMBUS, O., May 27.—Tipped by the 13-year-old son of a local police officer that a crowd of "ridiculous" men were operating a bomb factory in a two-story house in the outskirts of the city, Marshall Jones, chief of police, led a squad of city policemen in "capturing" the plant last night.

The raid for attack was 9:50 p.m. Armed with clubs, the officers entered the house, which was situated on a hill, and seized to start with a large quantity of dynamite, and a large quantity of other explosives. The police were told that the "bomb factory" was being operated for the purpose of making bombs for the purpose of making a revolution in Mexico.

Are Opposed To Talking Machine In The Homes

LOGANSPORT, IND., May 27.—Declaring against the use or presence in the homes of their members of all talking machines, phonographs and gramophones, the annual conference of the old order branch of the Fraternity church came to a close last night after a five-day session on a farm 12 miles east of here.

Six queries came to the conference for discussion and action. Five of them were of minor importance. The query regarding permission to have talking machines in the homes which was sent from the Dayton, Ohio, church, caused considerable discussion, and for a time threatened to carry. It was voted down by a narrow majority.

Some of the more conservative members sought to obtain from the conference action forbidding the use of the automobile, calling it a "devil" machine, but the opposition was greatly in the minority.

ALTHOUGH RUINS STILL STAND AS WAR'S GRIM REMINDERS, BELGIUM RAPIDLY RECOVERS FROM EFFECTS OF CONFLICT

Cattle show amid the ruins of Ypres, Belgium.

Although the stark ruins of many of her once beautiful cathedrals and public buildings serve as a grim reminder of war and German occupation, Belgium is rapidly recovering, in a trade and industrial way, from the effects of the great conflict. The picture vividly brings out this fact. At the close of the war there were almost no cattle in Belgium. But the Belgians brought in blood stock from England and very soon Belgian herds will be as big as ever.

to quote exact figures. "Leonard Wood," says a statement from his headquarters, "has so increased his votes in the last week that a first ballot prediction of 353 votes was made today at Wood headquarters here. This is more than the combined vote of all other candidates. On the first ballot, he will be a big leader and this total will increase steadily until nomination is secured."

The Johnson headquarters, which are now in charge of Hiram Johnson, Jr., the senator's son, announced with equal positiveness that:

"Senator Hiram W. Johnson already has 250 pledged delegates who will vote for him on the first ballot and will stick with him to the last ditch. His vote on the first ballot will be equal if not greater than that of any other candidate and by the fifth or sixth ballot, he will be nominated."

"We are going to win," said the statement from the Johnson camp. "We have had no time to sum up figures, therefore, are unavailable, but we are going to win and the situation looks even better than it did last week."

Work on the convention hall is progressing rapidly, and Charles R. Hall, superintendent of the Coliseum, has assured the convention committee that the more than 15,000 seats will be in place 24 hours before the convention is called to order by Chairman Will H. Hays, of the national committee.

Extra balconies are being erected to provide nearly 1,600 more seats than were available at any previous convention.

The speaker's platform and seats for 2,000 distinguished visitors have already been erected. In the coliseum annex, offices of the convention committee and officers and the rooms of the national committee, where the contests will be heard next week, have been in readiness for some time. National committees began arriving early this week and a majority of the fifty-three members are expected to be on hand by Monday. Chairman Hays will arrive Sunday, May 30th, during a battle between miners and detectives. Authorities announced that 15 warrants had been issued. Four of them are for holding-felds operators.

CHAMP CLARK'S RAYS IN
JEFFERSON CITY, MO., May 27.—Representative Champ Clark of Bowling Green, Mo., filed declaration with the secretary of state here today for the Democratic nomination for congress from the ninth district.

Palmer Opposed To Government Control Of Roads

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Vehement opposition to government ownership or railroad, endorsement of federal control of manufacture and distribution of "necessaries commodities" and elimination of excess profits taxes in favor of higher taxes on incomes from investments characterized the reply of Attorney General Palmer, made public today to the recent questions submitted to presidential candidates and officers by the national board of farm organizations.

Dealing specifically with the question of the five great meat packers, Mr. Palmer said the recent federal control decree, entered after long negotiations between the packers and the government, was the longest step taken toward their control. He explained the effect of the decree at length and added:

"I do not want to appear hostile to the term, but this decree makes butchers of these five great packers, and nothing else. They are no longer a serious menace to the food table of America by control of substitutes for meat."

The right of free speech, Mr. Palmer said, must be "carefully guarded and preserved."

Matewan Men Released On $5,000 Bonds

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., May 27.—Chief of Police Sid Hatfield of Matewan, W. Va., and nine other Matewan men were released on bond of $5,000 each after arraignment today in district court here on a charge of killing seven Baldwin-Felts detectives in Matewan, May 19th, during a battle between miners and detectives. Authorities announced that 15 warrants had been issued. Four of them are for holding-felds operators.

POLICE FORCE STRIKES
PELLEGRINA, ALA.—Entire police force struck when mayor ordered release of three Auburn students charged with disorderly conduct.

Sutherland Increases His Lead

WHEELING, W. VA., May 27.—With Senator Howard Sutherland maintaining his lead for the republican presidential preference over General Leonard Wood, in the West Virginia statewide primary election of last Tuesday, interest today centered in the races for Republican and Democratic nominations for governor and the Republican nomination for congress, in the first district. The three other contests are the closest ever waged at this state.

Sutherland's lead over Wood continued to increase as additional returns were tabulated by The Intelligencer. One thousand five hundred and twenty precincts out of 1820 in the state gave Sutherland 28,000; Wood, 25,120.

In the gubernatorial races the same number of precincts gave: Republican, E. T. Morgan, Fairmont, 28,270; S. B. Montgomery, Kinwood, 28,513; F. P. Greenup, Charleston, 25,998.

Democrats: A. B. Koonitz, Charleston, 11,925; A. B. Littlepage, Charleston, 11,311.

Only nine votes separated the candidates for the Republican congressional nomination in the first district. With only one precinct missing, the returns gave B. L. Rosebloom, Wheeling, a lead of nine votes over C. E. Carrigan, Glenville.

Vote Against Withdrawal

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 27.—The general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church voted today against withdrawal from the inter-church world movement.

RAILROADERS INDICTED
PITTSBURGH—United States grand jury returned indictments against five men formerly employed by railroads at New Castle, Pa., charging them with having violated Lever act by conspiring to limit facilities for transportation of necessities.

DAUGHERTY WILL TESTIFY TODAY BEFORE PROBERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27.—The senate investigation of the pre-convention financing of various presidential campaigns expected to center today around those of Senator Harding, Ohio, President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, New York, and Governor Coolidge, Massachusetts, all Republicans.

Chairman Keweenaw announced that Mr. Harding's manager, Harry M. Daugherty, would testify and that representatives of both Mr. Butler and Governor Coolidge would be on hand.

Testimony was offered yesterday by those concerned with the campaigns of Major General Wood, Attorney General Palmer, James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, and Senator Johnson. Colonel William Procter, of Ohio, referred to in previous testimony, as "the angel" behind General Wood, testified that he had advanced $500,000 to Wood's national organization, and estimated that contributions from all other sources "would not make as much."

WOOLEN FIRM HEAD FACES CHARGES OF PROFITEERING

NEW YORK, May 27.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, of New York, and of the American Woolen Company, of Massachusetts, faced arraignment before Federal Judge Hand today on indictments charging profiteering in woolen cloth.

A federal grand jury yesterday indicted Mr. Wood and both companies on 11 counts. Herbert C. Smyth, special assistant United States attorney general, in charge of the prosecution, declared Mr. Wood was receiving "excessive salaries" from the companies, in addition to commissions, which in 1919, amounted to $315,482. This, Mr. Smyth said, was charged as part of the company's manufacturing and selling expense.

Mr. Smyth asserted the company was receiving 33 percent profit above cost and said the companies this year increased their profits more than 300 percent over last year.

In addition to the regular attorneys of the woolen companies Mr. Wood has engaged Charles E. Hughes as counsel.

Fund Provided To Enforce Prohibition

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The $10,000,000 sundry civil appropriation bill, the last of the regular annual government supply bills, was passed by the senate late yesterday and sent to conference.

The bill, as passed, carried an amendment giving congress authority to determine what government publications shall be published, but authorized those now being issued to be continued until June 30, 1921.

JUDGE WANAMAKER IS OUT FOR OHIO SENATORSHIP

COLUMBUS, O., May 27.—Judge Wanamaker of the Ohio Supreme Court today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States Senator at the primary election to be held in August.

OPENING STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 27.—The only noteworthy feature at the irregular opening of today's stock market was a 2-point decline in American woollen. This was attributed to selling resulting from the indictments returned against that company and its officials here yesterday. Elsewhere price changes were mainly higher, especially among representative oil, equipment and steel, but the cheaper oils continued to sag. Rails, including general, were moderately lower, although crop reports from such important states as Kansas and Iowa, were very encouraging.

NOT FIRST GUILTY THERE

PRESIDENT GOMPERS has issued a manifesto, as head of the Federation of Labor, call for an overturn in congress. A great many people will agree with him that the present policy in the main, should be given leave to remain at home but they will not altogether agree with him as to the reason.

His principal grievance against congress is that it has done nothing to remedy the high cost of living. That is quite true, but it is equally true that it couldn't have done anything had it tried ever so hard and earnestly. The causes of high cost of everything are above and beyond it. Costs are fixed by production, prices are set by demand. If an article does not pay a profit on production the price will come when it will no longer be produced. Demand takes care of no note of this. People do not, as a rule, buy a thing with consideration as to its costs, but solely on the measure of their need or desire for it.

Of course, these principles are laid down only in general terms. Under certain conditions congress may have and has in fact indirectly controlled prices, but this is not a broad power that lies within its authority to exercise at any time it so chooses—there must be some need for it. For instance in the emergency of war maximums were fixed on certain foods, but nobody, not even Mr. Gompers himself, will hold that the government has the right to set the price of wheat at say a dollar a bushel, nor meat at 25 cents a pound. True enough there is a disposition to hold that congress can and should do anything that certain classes demand of it, but as yet that has not been written in the law of the land.

The condition that grieves President Gompers and so many of us with him exists of ourselves and is curable by ourselves and if we would address ourselves seriously to it, instead of appealing to the lawmakers, the cure would be sooner and more effectively set to work.

The war called the major producing forces of the war, either into the fighting line, or to the output of essentials therefor, causing a deficit in the ordinary requirements of life. This disturbance, in a major form, still remains with us, at least to the extent that production has not reached a stage where it yields a safe margin, or surplus over consumption. Until the time comes when supply is ahead of demand, or a panic is precipitated by false alarm and agitation, congress may turn out a hundred statutes a day against the high cost of living and none will avail.

Then there is this indisputable proposition: Nine out of ten men or families, if you will, are better off today than they ever were in all the previous history of civilization, that is in America. They are living in better homes, better equipped, and they are enjoying more of the amusements and luxuries of existence. What more striking exposition of the universal spread of prosperity could we have than we see in the condition that the tramp has disappeared and the job is running after the man, instead of the man looking for work?

We are not aware that we have ever been credited with being especially devout, but there may be a bit of superstition in us, as we can't help from feeling that unless the country ceases its everlasting complaint and disorder under the bounty a generous Providence has bestowed upon it, He will turn his face away from it and curse it because of ingratitude.

THE AUTHORITIES DISAGREE

HENRY P. DAVISON, international banker and head of the Red Cross and Samuel Vauclain, president of Baldwin locomotive works, have lately returned from a trip to Europe that carried them extensively over the central portions thereof, these nations mostly affected and supposedly devastated by the war.

They neither traveled together nor saw with the same eyes, indeed they did not so much as see the same things, at least to a concurrent similarity.

Mr. Davison finds want and war stalking everywhere, thousands literally perishing of starvation and he predicts dire things to come to this old planet if America does not come to their relief with food and clothing.

Mr. Vauclain didn't see anything of the sort, though he was both expecting and looking for it incidentally. He doesn't take a bit of stock in the tales that Europe is starving, he is altogether sure from what his eyes saw and his ears heard there isn't anything in the situation to excite either America's sympathy or her charity. Generally the people have settled down to the ways of peace. They are producing more than their wants require and scarcity is not an excuse for an empty stomach. The only call for deprivation here and there is a lack of transportation facilities to supply adequate distribution. As a whole the situation is gratifying.

As this is still a more or less free country you may believe either one you choose.

CHEERS FOR CHICAGO

CHICAGO never does things half way. Attendants on the Republican national convention, to be held therein in June, will get a sample of this truth, if half the tales borne by the newspapers be true.

Chicago has gone into the housing proposition and gone into it right. Her merchants, manufacturers and capitalists have raised ten million dollars and will construct comfortable homes at comfortable prices, for the tenants. The first batch of one hundred are completed and are being sold at cost price, in the vicinity of $4,000, on monthly payments of $33. The maximum return on the investment is fixed at 6 per cent. None but a wage earner can acquire one of these dwellings.

Best of all the wage earner must have children, not one child mind you, living with him.

Of course her slow and grasping rivals will say this is but another trick of Chicago to attract more population. But no matter as to that the Chicago idea has no flaws in it and the more in habitants it brings her the more peaceable and orderly she is going to be, home ownership and children being the all sufficient hostages therefor.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

ENGAGED TO ONE MAN: IN LOVE WITH ANOTHER

He came, he saw, and he was conquered. And, oh, what it means to me, only the stars and the deep shadows could ever understand.

Prince Charming simply stood before the portrait of myself and said nothing. He seemed to be seeing visions and only at the end of an eternity did he say, "How strange that you should realize yourself."

Then we sat down and talked of everyday things, about smoked, and sometimes were silent. We do not need to communicate. Prince Charming and I, who are so useless in the face of tremendous soul upheavals—so bland.

WHO'S WHO In The Days News

SENATOR KENTON
 In a recent speech before the upper house of congress, Senator Kenton of Iowa warned the public that farm products would continue to be very high in price. After pointing out that there has been a decrease of twenty-eight per cent in the number of farm workers in two years and that farm owners are now finding it extremely difficult to harvest their crops, he predicted a world famine in a few years hence, if present conditions continue, and said that in a not far distant day hunger would drive people back to the farms.

The Iowa senator's speech had called forth a great deal of comment, most of it in accord with his statements. So on reports Kenton as a reasonableness, and it is realized that he never makes a statement unless he can back it up with facts.

William S. Kenton entered the senate nine years ago. He was born at Eliza, Ohio, in 1859, and was educated at Grinnell College and the law school of the University of Iowa. On being admitted to the Iowa bar he hung out his shingle at First Dodge and still practices there when not in Washington. Before his election to the senate he was prosecuting attorney of Webster county, Iowa, for five years; district judge of the Eleventh judicial district for two years, and assistant to the attorney general of the United States from March, 1910, until his election to the senate on April 12, 1911. He is a Republican and his present term expires in 1925.

A red spot appeared on both cheeks, as I ate in a miserable solitude. How could Jack possibly treat me? How dare he invite me to dinner and then fall to put in an appearance? Never would I speak to him again. I was once more a free lance, as far as he was concerned. Stay engaged to a man who was rude? Not I. No, indeed. And I rushed and fumed to myself, until my quiver self told me to call up the house and tell daddy that I was held in pawn for my dinner. No sooner said than done. I lighted my surprise when calling I heard Jack's deep voice booming back at me from the great beyond.

BILLY WHISKER

FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

It wasn't long until Billy Jr., and his five, not even in your beloved star heard the puffing and blowing of steam coming up the grade to pick him up and carry them along on their journey. When Pete, their caretaker, heard the sound, he said:

"It's mighty glad I am to hear that, for I am as hungry as a bear, not being able to eat tin cans and sawdust and other things in the yard here that look just like you, Mr. Billy Jr., and grass and herbs like you, Mr. Star."

The train presently reached them, and by the help of many hands everything was soon packed on board and they were off for the west coast more, off to another land where I could not find you."

Their conversation was interrupted here by a man bringing them something to eat and a bucket of water. "I do not see why they did not run this car over to the stock yards so these animals could have been taken out and fed and watered and their car cleaned in proper shape," Billy Jr. heard a red-headed man say, as he pushed back the sliding door that shut them in. "For heaven's sake! I thought it was two horses we had been sent to look after and not a car of goats," as Billy Jr. appeared at the door.

"You can have the job," said a jolly-looking fat man. "I throw up my share with goats when I was a boy."

"Why, what did they ever do to you that you should take such a dislike to them?" said the red-headed man.

Their First Haul
 With the summer comes smilax and flowers, and lots of other joys—and sorrows. Little Dorothy's mother was fully alive to the situation, and made preparations beforehand.

She sent her daughter into the kitchen to go through the parcels from the grocer's shop and pick out some dainties.

But Dorothy returned not, and at last mother got impatient. "Hurry up, dear," she called from the dining room. "Can't you get them?"

"No, mamma," came a sad little voice in reply. "They're not me, but we're late coming."

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. MONTGOMERY

NEW YORK, May 27.—Every day of the year, from the first of January to the last of December, the city of New York is a different place. It is a city of contrasts, of extremes, of contrasts. It is a city of contrasts, of extremes, of contrasts. It is a city of contrasts, of extremes, of contrasts.

Only a year ago a mother and two daughters came from a mid-west city and came under my observation. The mother was widowed. One of the daughters was very pretty but had no stage experience yet the family believed in her and had spent half of $500, all they had, for clothes to give her a good appearance in visiting engagements.

She had no pull. To me it looked hopeless and I used to worry about them. After a few weeks they moved away up in the Bronx to run down expenses. Now and then I ran across the girl making the rounds of the theatrical places. Then finally the

 In Cleveland they tell a story of a boy who left school to work for a small manufacturer. The boy was dull and his stupidity annoyed his employer.

So, after a week's trial, he was discharged. "Get your pay," said the manufacturer to him on Saturday, "and let this be the last of you. You're discharged."

It was, therefore, a great surprise that the manufacturer saw the boy at work in his former place on Monday morning.

"What are you doing in this shop?" demanded the manufacturer angrily. "I discharged you Saturday."

"Yes," said the boy, "and don't you do it again. When I told my mother, she kicked me."—New York Times.

The Date Palm
 The date palm differs from other trees in that the trunk is not solid, but its center is filled with pith, round which is a tough bark, full of strong fibers when young, which, as the tree grows old, harden and become lustrous. To this bark, the leaves are closely joined, which in the center rise erect, but after they are unrolled above the sheath that surrounds them, they expand very wide on every side of the stem, and, as the older leaves decay, the stalk advances in height. The leaves, when the tree has grown to a size for bearing fruit, are six to eight feet long; are very broad when spread out, and are used for covering the tops of houses or similar purposes.

Turquoise Tailman of Safety
 Among army officers in some of the European countries the custom still prevails of wearing a ring set with turquoise as a talisman against a violent death.
